Bond plan will go to state officials

The City Council continued to pave the way toward an industrial park in Sedalia by formally approving a resolution Thursday to submit its plans for a $380,000 general obligation bond issue to state authorities.

All six council members present at the 5:15 p.m. special meeting, cast yes votes on the resolution. Third Ward Democrat Carl Franklin and Fourth Ward Democrat David Curry did not attend.

The special session was called because plans for the park must be sent to the state Department of Commerce and Industrial Development for approval by the Industrial Development Commission. The plans must be received by the commission for consideration at least two weeks before its next meeting, which is scheduled for early July.

Mayor Jerry Jones said the application outlines the description, cost and source of funds for the industrial park project.

Jones said the Department of Commerce and Industrial Development must approve any industrial bond issue in Missouri before an election can be held.

Should state authorities approve the plan, the election, which is set for Aug. 5, must then be authorized by the council.

John Hequembourg, industrial development director, said he expects the commission to approve the city's plans.

Hequembourg reiterated that there will be no tax increase if the bond proposal is approved by voters. Instead, the debt will be repaid with city sales tax revenue, similar to the manner in which the Municipal Building bond debt is being retired.

The Sedalia Economic Development Board chose a 100-acre site at $1,500 per acre for the proposed park, located north of Highway 65 and bordered by Grand Avenue and the Lexington Branch of the Missouri-Pacific Railroad.

The land, owned by John Van Dyne, 1600 North Grand, was offered with an option to buy an additional 100 acres for $1,650 per acre at a later date.

Reputed crime head, linked to CIA, shot

OAK PARK, Ill. (AP) — Sam Giancana, a reputed leader in the Chicago crime syndicate who was recently linked to alleged CIA plots to kill Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, was found shot to death in his home Thursday night, police said.

Giancana, 65, had been shot once in the right corner of the mouth and five times in the neck, according to Oak Park Police Chief Wilbur Reichert.

No weapon was recovered, but six 22-caliber shell casings were found on the floor, Reichert said.

"It seems like a professional hit, but the small caliber of the gun bothers us," he said. Gangland slayings often are committed with shotguns or large caliber weapons.

About $1,400 in cash was found on the body, Reichert said, leading authorities to discount robbery as a motive for the shooting.

Caretaker Joseph DiPersio, 82, discovered the body lying face up on the kitchen floor in the basement of Giancana's home in this western Chicago suburb, Reichert said.

DiPersio and his wife had been watching television in a second floor room of the house, but they said they heard no gunshots, possibly because their air conditioner was running, the police chief said.

DiPersio said he saw Giancana alive at 10:30 p.m., but the next time he checked the reputed mobster was dead. Police received the homicide call at 11:51 p.m.

Giancana, a dapper, outgoing figure in earlier years with a bent for silk suits and night clubs, was arrested in connection with a number of gangland killings in the late 1950s and early 1960s, but was never convicted. In the mid-1960s, he was jailed for a year for refusing to answer a grand jury's questions about organized crime.

Giancana, who for several years kept company with singer Phyllis McGuire after they met at Las Vegas in 1961, reportedly worked his way up through the ranks of the Chicago crime syndicate built by Al Capone.

Something of a recluse in recent years, Giancana, a widower, had spent much of his time on the golf course and at the Oak Park home.

Workers okay factory change

Town and Country Shoes Inc., employees who are members of Teamsters Local 534 voted in favor of a staggered vacation policy Thursday at the Ramada Inn.

The union voted to replace the traditional two-week shutdown of the local plant in the summer with a staggered vacation plan.

Lester Hepburn, Local 534 secretary-treasurer, told The Democrat-Capital Thursday night that "some of the people were a little unhappy because they had made (vacation) plans ... but times are tough."

He declined to give the exact tally of members voting for and against the issue, saying this information was "confidential."

John Lipscomb, St. Louis, president of the company, had said earlier that if workers did not agree to the revised staggered vacation plan, the company might have been forced to close permanently. The staggered vacation plan was developed approximately 10 days ago.

Lipscomb, advised of the decision Friday, said, "Naturally, I am quite pleased and satisfied that all persons connected with the company are trying so hard to keep the company going ... it does get us over this hurdle."

He said the staggered vacation schedule will be based on employee seniority.

In recent months, the company has operated on a reduced work-week schedule to minimize the number of lay-offs created by declining business. However, it was reported 50 workers recently returned to their jobs. The Sedalia plant currently employs about 360 factory workers. All are members of the union.

The vacation change calls for staggered vacation periods in which only 10 per cent of the employees at a time would not report for work. Under this schedule the factory maintains its regular format and will not be forced to close entirely.

Governor stresses pride

By TOM MAUPIN

WARSAW — "The attitude of local leaders and citizens is the key to a city's growth," Gov. Christopher S. Bond told about 150 persons at a "town hall forum" Thursday afternoon at the Benton County Courthouse here.

The governor said the nearby Harry S. Truman Dam project is expected to draw thousands of persons a day to Benton County and it could attract industry to the area.

"The final decision of industry locating in a new area is the view of the community," Bond said. "People will come into your community and talk with the citizens about how they feel toward the city. If the local attitude is bad toward the community, industry knows its employees will not be happy there."

Bond said that through the state's Jobs for Missouri program, state government will "do all we can to help ... and we hope if we can, you will let us know."

He said the top priority of his administration has been to bring new jobs into Missouri. The governor said that 23,000 new jobs have been created in the state since Jan. 1, 1973. The administration has even sought an overseas office to attract foreign business, but Bond said the legislature failed to appropriate the money for the office this year.

State Sen. John C. Ryan, R-Sedalia, who attended the meeting, described the recently adjourned Missouri General Assembly as a "do nothing legislature."

Ryan said the "average person will agree it was a very controversial session" because of a gun control bill, the death penalty bill and the Equal Rights Amendment.

One-year mission ahead

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

For the last five years, Dr. B. L. Boatright has left his family behind and flown his 172 Cessna Skyhawk on each of his medical-missionary journeys south of the border.

This time, however, the plane has been grounded for a very good reason — it was impossible to squeeze Boatright, his wife, his two daughters and one son, plus miscellaneous baggage, into the craft's small cockpit. In 1975, it's going to be a family affair.

And that's not the only difference. This year, Boatright will be stationed very near the Tropic of Capricorn in San Carlos, Paraguay, nearly 4,000 miles farther south than he has ever been before. Finally, his traditional three-week tour of duty has stretched to an entire year.

"I must say, frankly, we're anticipating this experience about as much as anything in our lives," Boatright said. "This is the first time, of course, that the entire family will be going along with me. That, and the prospect of spending an entire year with the project, is something quite unique to us."

Boatright, his wife, Mary, daughters Miriam, 11, and Deborah, 14, and youngest son, Matthew, 10, will leave Kansas City International Airport late Saturday afternoon for Miami, where they will fly to Asuncion, the capital of Paraguay. From there it's a 48-hour riverboat ride to their destination in the back country.

An older son, Dan, 16, will be waiting for his family when they arrive. He's been there four months and, his father says, has already mastered enough of the native Angaité language to help run the village store.

Also waiting in Paraguay will be their clothing and medical supplies, transported earlier in a dozen 55-gallon drums. The drums were filled in Sedalia with the help of several local physicians' wives. They were then trucked to California and transported by boat the rest of the way.

"About half the drums were filled with drugs provided in part by my husband and other local physicians," Mrs. Boatright explained. "We really appreciate all the local help we had to get started."

Reaching into her purse, Mrs. Boatright produced a picture of a rough wooden shanty situated in an obviously sparse area.

"We're going to have running water in our new home," she said with a quick laugh. "The kind of water you have to run two miles to fetch!"

The Boatrights will be in San Carlos under the auspices of the New Tribal Missions Board, an independent Christian group. Of the 12 "colonies" in Paraguay operated by the board, only San Carlos, because of Boatright, will offer professional medical care.

Between their high school and grade school correspondence courses,

Await new experience

Seated in his office study, Dr. B. L. Boatright, left, discusses with his family the added details of their upcoming year-long stay in San Carlos, Paraguay. The Boatright family will provide medical assistance and other forms of aid to residents of the area and will also

which will be supervised by their mother, a certified teacher, the four Boatright children will be performing their own service projects. While Dan is tending the store, his sister, Deborah, a future prospective nursing student, will assist her father in his make-shift clinic. Matthew and Miriam aren't quite sure what they will do yet, but they don't plan on being idle.

"I just want to do something to help out," said Miriam. "Maybe I'm not big enough to do everything, but I am big enough to do some things. Every little bit counts."

Although Boatright anticipates being able to care for most of his new patients himself, he will be able to radio for assistance in the form of an airplane to transport a patient to the hospital in Asuncion.

"But," his wife later noted, "this won't be exactly like we think of it back in the states. It may take a week for the plane to get here once we notify them. We will be in radio contact with our sponsoring group twice a day, but it may often take them longer to respond because of the remoteness."

For his part, Dr. Boatright won't limit his practical assistance to the world of medicine. An active Future Farmers of America member in his high school days, he plans to also advise natives on improved agricultural techniques, a basic occupation in the San Carlos area.

The Boatright family, members of the Maplewood Church, doesn't deny for a minute that it took something very special to lure them from a comfortable life in rural Sedalia, modern schools, a plush-carpeted office building and real running water.

"We truly believe God has called us down here to do His will," explained Dr. Boatright. "We all feel this or none of us would be going. It's just something we feel we must do. To help these people out and spread the good news of Christ is our underlying mission."

The family first thought of going in the fall of 1973, but was unable to secure a suitable physician to assume Boatright's practice during his absence.

"Now, Dr. Alan Allmon will be taking over my practice and his family will live in our house," Boatright explained. "He has worked with me before and I know he has the utmost skills and abilities. I know my practice is in good hands."

"We're all just praying about this next year and trusting," he said. "We aren't afraid of what will happen but that doesn't mean we don't think about it and wonder. Well, the wondering is just about over. We're going to be finding out for ourselves real soon."

Women's movement is continuing

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — New notes are popping up in the drive of women for equal prerogatives in the churches. There were reverberations on both sides of the issue and in between, but the controversy kept up a robust pitch.

With the start this Thursday of a world conference on women in Mexico City, here is a brief summary of recent developments concerning women's rights in the ministry.

—A Hong Kong Anglican priest, the Rev. Jane Hwang, one of three officially accepted women priests in the worldwide Anglican communion which includes the U.S. Episcopal Church, this week ended a six-week American visit, leading services in Ohio, Washington, D. C., Canada, and California. Declares she: "If humanity is to be fully represented before God in the priesthood, it is logical to suppose that the ministry which is not limited to people of one tribe or race should not be limited to one sex."

—Archbishop Donald Coggan of Canterbury, spiritual leader of all Anglicans, said on a Canadian visit that he endorses the ordaining of women to the priesthood, hopes the practice soon will be approved and believes it will.

—Pope Paul VI told a Vatican audience that women cannot be ordained because "Jesus did not call women to the ministry founded on the sacred order since, as we know, all the apostles were men."

—Challenging that conclusion, Sister Margaret Ellen Traxler of Chicago, head of the National Coalition of American Nuns, pointed out that Jesus also chose only Jews as apostles, which didn't limit the church priesthood to Jews.

—For the first time, Episcopal and Roman Catholic scholars meet together June 22-25 in Cincinnati to examine the issue.

—The president of the Roman Catholic Canon Law Society, the Rev. John T. Finnegan of Weston, Mass., said the Vatican's newly revised canons continue the restriction of the priesthood to males, failing to meet "changing needs" about it.

He said canon lawyers will be "stronger in our criticism" of the perpetuated ban.

—In Wheaton, Md., the executive board of the National Assembly of Religious Brothers, representing Roman Catholic orders of brothers, voiced support of "full participation of women in all ministries of the church."

—Paralleling recent findings of a national Roman Catholic survey, the U.S. Catholic, published in Chicago by the Clerical Fathers, found in its own survey that most laity and clergy — 57 per cent — support ordination of women.

—A Jewish woman, Barbara Hermon, 23, of Beth Shalom Temple, Clifton-Passaic, N.J., became the first woman in Judaism to be officially designated a cantor, the synagogue musical leader, a role traditionally reserved to men.

—One of the 11 American women irregularly ordained as Episcopal priest last July left that church because of its continuing refusal to recognize women as priests, and became a Methodist minister.

Revolution's GIs were irregular

By MICHAEL SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sometime after 1776, John Sail of Massachusetts found this bit of bad news in his mail:

"This is to inform you that you are this evening drafted as one of the Continental men to go to General Washington's headquarters and you must go or find an able bodied man in your Room (place), or pay a fine of twenty pounds in twenty-four hours."

Sail might have been any age between 16 and 60 when he received the draft notice from a local militia captain summoning him to serve in the regular Continental Army.

Washington's regular forces were constantly short of men and there was steady draft of soldiers from state militia units.

Many of the 100,000 Americans who fought in the Revolution were middle-aged and in poor physical shape compared with military forces of today.

Those who fought in the early battles in the spring and summer of 1775 were farmers with little or no military training who did their fighting from behind stone fences, little caring what other members of their units were doing.

But after the first several months of war, the colonial army was organized into units whose drill and training were modeled after the conventional British tactics of the time.

With few exceptions, the most important battles of the Revolution were set piece affairs with one army faced off against another, most often in an open field.

It was not until the Americans learned the rigid musket drill of 18th century European armies and became proficient with the bayonet that the tide of battle turned against the British.

In 1777, Washington imported a German military officer, Baron Frederick William Von Steuben, to instill in his troops discipline and confidence.

Steuben broke tradition as an officer and personally drilled the soldiers encamped at Valley Forge. He also wrote the most widely used drill manual of the time and there are historians who believe that without him the British might have won.

Chances are that Sail was trained with Steuben's methods.

The troops used muskets known as "Brown Bessies," which were notoriously inaccurate and often misfired. They were effective at a maximum range of 60 yards and only if fired simultaneously by large numbers of troops.

The soldiers formed two lines, one kneeling and the other standing behind the first line. While one rank fired, the other reloaded. That meant that the troops who responded with the greatest speed and precision to Steuben's drill were the most likely to win. A good battalion had much the battlefield impact of a 20th century machine gun.

As for bayonets, there were few Americans who believed them necessary until several early losses to the British proved that close-in fighting would be a major factor in the outcome of the war. For one thing, medical practices of the time were so crude that a man injured by a well-placed bayonet was unlikely to survive.

Sail slept on a mattress of straw and he awoke to ear-shattering drum rolls. It was vital for him to learn a score of beats, for the drum was the radio of the 18th century battlefield. In the heat of battle, only the drum, in occasional combination with the fife, could be heard.

As a member of the Continental Line, Sail fought among the elite of the American forces. Local militia troops often were placed in the front rank of battle on the assumption they would fire one musket volley, then break and run.

The better disciplined and trained regulars to the rear were expected to stand fast, firing several times before the battle as decided.

Washington's armies were plagued constantly by desertions. Thousands of recruits picked up a bounty for enlisting in a unit, and then deserted so they could enlist in another unit for still another 10 pounds, or a promise of a land grant when the war ended.

Saxe woman pleads guilty to robbery

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Susan Saxe, the radical feminist accused of bank robbery and murder in her days as an underground revolutionary, has pleaded guilty to stealing a truck and ammunition from a National Guard armory at Newburyport, Mass., five years ago.

She informally pleaded guilty to the charges June 9, the day on which a federal trial on charges of robbing a bank here was to have opened. She formally entered the guilty plea Thursday, and the prosecution asked for a two-year jail term. The armory theft charge carries a maximum 10-year sentence.

She has said she was pleading guilty in the armory case as part of a deal with federal prosecutors.

Pope may take to air for holy year

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The large numbers of pilgrims coming to Rome for the holy year may require Pope Paul VI to use a helicopter in order to conduct his weekly general audiences this summer.

A Vatican official said there may be too many people to be accommodated in the audience hall at Castle Gandolfo, the papacy's retreat. So the helicopter may be used to take the 77-year-old pontiff to Rome for the audiences, the official said.

Evangelists are biking in Florida

PALM COAST, Fla. (AP) — Two dozen Ohio teen-agers are spending their summer bicycling through Central Florida, trying to brighten life for hospital patients and the elderly.

The 24 youngsters and five chaperones from the Grace Lutheran Church in Fremont, Ohio, entertain the invalids with religious and patriotic songs and skits.

"It's all fun," said Donna Shafer, 14. "Singing is work, sure, but it's inner fun."

Since arriving by plane in Orlando earlier this week, the group has visited hospitals and old people's homes in Titusville, New Smyrna Beach and Bunnell.

From here, the youngsters will cycle to St. Augustine, Palatka, Ocala, Leesburg and Disney World before flying home.

The group earned money for the trip with bake sales, car washes and the like, said the Rev. Paul Fritz, youth director of the church. Most are members of the church choir.

Their bicycles and a van carrying spare parts and first aid equipment were sent ahead. Lutheran churches along the way provide housing and meals.

It is the group's third summer trip of this type, but the first two were confined to Ohio. This year, the youngsters voted to visit Florida.

Good weather wasn't the only reason the group decided to visit the Sunshine State, said the Rev. Mr. Fritz.

"This is a great state to bicycle in because it's so flat," he said.

Area minister's wife completes divinity degree

Mrs. Anne Lee Kreml, wife of the Rev. Warren J. Kreml of St. John's United Church of Christ in Florence, was awarded her master of divinity degree June 12 by the Chicago Theological Seminary.

As part of her study at the seminary, Mrs. Kreml did extensive research on the history of the Evangelical Synod of North America, the denomination from which her husband's church was founded in 1858.

Mrs. Kreml is also a minister, serving an ecumenical church in Shawnee Mission, Kan. The Rev. Mrs. Kreml is returning to Shawnee Mission to complete her work there before moving to Florence, where she and the children will join Rev. Kreml.

Exit from Angola begins

LUANDA, Angola (AP) — Thousands, blacks as well as whites, are fleeing from Angola as the threat of civil war looms over this Portuguese territory on Africa's west coast.

Potentially one of the richest nations in Africa, Angola has been plunged into turmoil by three rival African groups. They are fighting each other for military supremacy before independence comes to the country of 6.2 million people on Nov. 11.

Perhaps 5,000 persons — a conservative estimate, according to local officials — have been killed in armed clashes since mid-1974. Most of the victims have been Africans.

Much of the fighting has occurred in towns in northern and central Angola, but most of the deaths have occurred in gun battles in the streets of Luanda, the capital.

The clashes usually erupt in the musseques, the crowded black townships that ring the central business area of this tense port city. There is little black-white tension in Luanda.

Mortars, rockets and machine guns are used.

The worst violence occurred between April 28 and May 1. An estimated 1,500 persons were killed in a showdown between two of the three rival groups.

There was more fighting in early June, but a general calm has been restored in Luanda. However, reports persist of sporadic fighting in the hinterland.

Many of the refugees come from towns in the interior and are being flown to Portugal at government expense because they have no money to pay the fare. The evacuation has been orderly so far, but slow.

Since mid-1974, after the military coup in Portugal signalled the end of Lisbon's empire in Africa, about 120,000 of the 350,000 to 400,000 Portuguese in the territory have left.

Many of the departing Portuguese were born in Angola, and some of these say they may eventually move to Brazil. A diplomat explained that many Angolan whites are unsympathetic to the leftist government in Portugal.

The three rival guerrilla movements are:

—The Front for the National Liberation of Angola (FNLA), led by Holden Roberto and backed by the Bakongo tribe in northern Angola, comprising about 20 per cent of the population.

—The Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA), a Soviet-backed group led by Agostinho Neto and supported by the Mbundu tribe in central Angola, comprising about 25 per cent of the population.

—The National Union for the Total Liberation of Angola (UNITA), led by Jonas Savimbi and backed by the Ovimbundu tribe of southern Angola, comprising about 33 per cent of the population.

Luanda is an MPLA stronghold, and black Angolans from other sections who support the other two movements have been the victims of MPLA troops.

Leaders of the three guerrilla factions met this week in Nakuru, Kenya, to try to resolve their differences.

GOD LOVES US

By Phil Minton

In spite of our sins God loves us. He loves the agnostic, the atheist, the deist, the literate, the illiterate, the rich, the poor, the white, the black, the drunkard, the harlot, the good, the evil, and even the many others which I could not mention. Though He loves so many, He does not approve of our actions at all times. In fact, He is frequently grieved at what we day and do.

Scripture even teaches that the natural man, that is, the person lost in sin without Jesus Christ, can do nothing to please God, except to repent and receive Christ as personal Saviour. Then it will be possible to serve God correctly and cheerfully.

Does your church preach about such a Saviour Who can change lives? So many do not. Many others add baptism, communion, good works or other man-made doctrines. The Bible, however, teaches that salvation is a gift that must be received by faith. Have you received that gift?

Watergate spurs religious efforts

NEW YORK (AP) — Another Watergate figure has turned to specifically Christian work. It's a familiar symptom. The moral issues raised in the case have triggered turns to religion among several of those involved.

In fact, it was the impact of church services that purportedly sparked the initial break in the case.

It has caused a lot of reassessments of motives and values among the participants, says former White House aide Jeb Stuart Magruder, who this week took a job in a nationwide Christian youth program.

"I'm sure many of them are reviewing their goals," he said in an interview.

Some of the participants have asserted new Christian commitments, including former White House plumber Egil "Bud" Krogh and one-time White House adviser Charles W. "Chuck" Colson, both of whom served prison time for Watergate involvements.

John Ehrlichman, chief domestic adviser to resigned President Nixon and also convicted in the Watergate cover-up, says he now wants to work for "the well-being of others."

Watergate break-in expert James McCord, who served four months in prison, said it was a sermon series in suburban Washington's Fourth Presbyterian Church by its pastor, the Rev. Richard Halverson, that led him to write the 1973 letter to Federal Judge John Sirica that first blew the lid on the case.

Magruder, who spent seven months in prison for his part in the affair, is becoming a vice president of Young Life, an organization working among unchurched teen-agers to bring them to Christian convictions and standards.

Magruder, 40, a United Presbyterian, said he and his family always have been active in church, but that as a result of Watergate, his dedication to Christianity "is stronger."

Anyone who has been through a "crisis stage" such as Watergate inevitably reassesses his philosophy and objectives, he said, adding that in his own case, it was not simply Watergate and prison but his whole life experience.

Young Life, the organization he will serve as vice president in fields of administration and communication, has headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo. It is non-denominational and runs about 1,000 weekly youth clubs meeting weekly in 300 cities.

Magruder, asked if the sins of Watergate helped qualify a man for Christian service, said:

"The basic view of Christianity is that every man is a sinner. But prison wasn't a seminary. It was a lot of things, but not a seminary." Yet the pangs of it, he added, have stirred a zeal for reform, there and elsewhere.

Sewer drains concern commission

The Environmental Quality Commission has come out in favor of improving the sewer drainage system of the city and better enforcement of noise ordinance.

Thursday night the commission reviewed a draft of a report to the City Council on activities of the commission for the past year. During the review session, commission member Mrs. Judy Berenyi said, "our drainage system in this city is terrible."

Sedalia Economic Development Director John Hequembourg agreed that no one would argue the fact of Sedalia needing better drainage sewers, "but it is a $7 million project. Taxes would have to be doubled."

The suggestion to the council, not expected to be presented until July, will say that more attention should be paid to the problem of drainage ditches by the city with the present tax rate, but an increase should be considered if necessary.

Hequembourg said the main problem in the drainage system is that many older streets were not built with drainage sewers alongside them. To solve that problem, he said, would cost $20 million.

According to Hequembourg, the primary concern of the federal Environmental Protection Agency is the installation of sanitary sewers in cities and not drainage sewers. He said there is the possibility of the city using revenue sharing funds on the project.

Hequembourg said Sedalia has the least expensive municipal services in the state. Commission chairman Robert Solomon said, "Somebody has to convince the conservative elements of city government that you can't continue to lower the taxes, because at some point there is a point of no return."

As for noise in Sedalia, the commission will recommend to the council that ordinances on that subject be re-written or merely enforced by the police department.

The commission's report concerning noise says the current ordinances are vague and make enforcement difficult.

The commission will also suggest to the council that the two-year old tree planting project be continued for a third year. Solomon reported that of the 200 trees planted this past year, about 25 have not survived. He said there could be more but that is the number that has been reported to the commission.

Mrs. Berenyi suggested that commission members divide up the names of those persons who received trees through the commission and Park Board program, and find out the condition of their trees. This will be carried out in the next few weeks.

In other matters commission member James Foster reported that the landscaping project at the Scott Joplin Memorial in the Main Street parking lot, is completed. The only problem is what to put on top of soil. Foster suggested red lava rock. Mrs. Berenyi was asked to write the Sedalia Garden Club Council and ask if they wanted to help in the project.

The next commission meeting will be July 17.

Pension plan may require income tax

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Some 36,000 state workers could be forced to begin paying income tax on the state's 7 per cent contribution to their retirement plan if a controversial pension revision bill is vetoed by the governor.

A possible gubernatorial veto of the bill, which includes a 20 per cent boost in legislative pensions, could also require the state Employees Retirement System to pay an estimated $15 million in back taxes on income from investment of its $135 million fund.

But should Gov. Christopher S. Bond object to enactment of the bill, which he has labeled "certainly suspect," the proposed 25 per cent hike in state worker retirement benefits would not be jeopardized. It is also included in another measure awaiting his consideration.

Although the pension revision bill was aimed at equalizing benefits for employees in both the state system and the Highway Department system, its primary purpose was to answer objections of the federal Internal Revenue Service, which has threatened to levy the taxes on both the fund and the state workers.

The IRS has complained that the main state plan is discriminatory in the benefits it provides to the employees it covers since the legislative pensions are so much higher than those afforded state workers.

The proposed change would take the legislative pension plan completely out of the main retirement system and have lawmakers' benefits paid directly from general tax receipts.

"It's my understanding that the IRS was satisfied with the proposal in the pension bill," said Edwin Bode of the State Employees Retirement System. "But if there's a veto, we're back in the same old fix."

According to the IRS, retirement systems must not discriminate in payment of benefits if they are to retain their tax exempt status. Bode said the federal government is keeping a close eye on the situation, and if the change is not approved, state workers could be required to pay regular income tax on the state retirement contribution because it would be considered additional income.

Bond, while he has not specifically said what his action on the bill will be, was critical of the measure because of the boost in lawmakers' pensions and the elimination of their $420 a year pension contribution.

The bill would boost the monthly pension of a legislator with 16 years service from $300 to $360 while raising the monthly payment for a state worker with the same pay and service from only $112 to $140.

But that 25 per cent hike for state workers would still be authorized if Bond vetoed favorably another retirement bill awaiting his action.

That measure would allow retired state workers to serve as "special consultants" to the retirement systems with their pay being the difference between their authorized pension and the highest pension paid under either state system. Currently the benefit for the 8,000 highway department workers is 25 per cent higher than for the 36,000 other state employees.

Man, woman who aided in escape will be returned

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — A man and woman charged with conspiring in the helicopter escape of a Michigan state prison convict were ordered returned to Michigan Thursday.

Morris Eugene Colosky, 21, and Mrs. Gertrude Mabel Woodbury, 42, both of Webberville, Mich., waived a removal hearing here before a federal magistrate on aircraft piracy charges.

They were arrested Tuesday at Garden City, Kan., where they were working with a carnival. They had been objects of a nationwide search.

Colosky is accused of chartering the helicopter and forcing its pilot at knifepoint to land inside the walls of the prison and pick up the convict, Dale Otto Remling, 46.

Remling surrendered after 30 hours of freedom. Mrs. Woodbury was described as a principal contact between Remling and six other conspirators outside the prison, one of them her 19-year-old son.

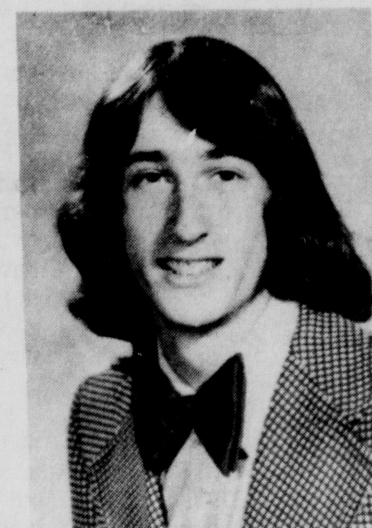

Helein, said bank vice president Richard Furrer, but apparently became afraid she was ill or unconscious when she didn't answer and abandoned her in the box.

Mrs. Helein, who suffers from a heart condition, forced her way out of the sealed box a short time later and found herself in an alley in a run-down residential section of the city. She then signaled a passing patrolman, who took her to a police station.

"She's holding up pretty well considering what she's been through," said Mrs. Helein's son, James. "She's a pretty remarkable gal. When I first saw her at the police station, she said, 'I'm just trying to keep life interesting.'"

Police and FBI agents were still searching late Thursday for the men and a female accomplice, who were reportedly driving an 18-foot truck with California license plates.

Farmers revolted unsuccessfully in western Pennsylvania July-November 1794 against a whisky excise tax made a law in 1791.

Islam member convicted of robbery charge

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Curtis Williams, 33, a member of the Nation of Islam, was convicted Thursday of three charges of robbery and one of assault in connection with the $13,500 holdup last Sept. 16 of the Kansas City Baptist Temple.

The Jackson County Circuit Court jury assessed his punishment at 20 years imprisonment for the robbery, five years for robbing a woman employee of $3 and five years for robbing another employee of $2.

The jury could not agree on a penalty for assault. A woman was shot in an ear during the holdup. Judge Tom J. Stubbs indicated he would set that punishment himself, at 30 years.

Williams took the stand Thursday to deny involvement in the incident. He said he and two friends were looking for work when arrested in the church parking lot.

J. Arnot Hill, Williams' court-appointed attorney, said he would file a motion for a new trial.

County nursing service topic of club talk

Kiwanians heard an explanation of the Pettis County Nursing Service at their meeting Thursday noon at the Bothwell Hotel.

Mrs. Dianne Pilant, county health nurse, said the service operated last year on a budget of less than $22,000, with the state paying $9,560 of that. She called the service a bargain at that price.

The Pettis County service was begun in 1968, Mrs. Pilant said, and is still located on the second floor of the courthouse. She said once a federal grant is received, the county will be able to build its planned health center, at a cost of $82,000.

Services provided by the office include home nursing, school health, office services and public education, Mrs. Pilant said.

She stressed the need for a facility to handle VD cases, which she said are increasing rapidly. The nursing office receives about one call a week related to VD, Mrs. Pilant added.

The Rev. Greg Hibbard introduced the program in the absence of Bill Jackson.

State Sen. John Ryan discussed the recently adjourned legislative session and the disposition of various bills.

Cool hands get cold feet in scheme

ST. LOUIS (AP) — It began as a smoothly executed abduction and ransom scheme.

Two men coolly bluffed their way into the home of a city bank president, abducted his wife at gunpoint, then notified bank officials they wanted $300,000 for her safe return.

But it ended as a comedy of errors when the hostage was freed after her captors apparently became worried about her health.

Mrs. George J. Helein, 68, the wife of the president of South Side National Bank, was abducted Thursday by two black men who posed as deliverymen, police said. While one of them displayed a gun, they gagged, taped and handcuffed her, then placed her in a cardboard box in a rented van.

The men then instructed bank officers to pick up a suitcase, which contained a note demanding the money in unmarked bills in return for Mrs. Helein's safety. While waiting for the money to be collected, they drove around the city.

They kept calling to Mrs.

Helein, said bank vice president Richard Furrer, but apparently became afraid she was ill or unconscious when she didn't answer and abandoned her in the box.

Mrs. Helein, who suffers from a heart condition, forced her way out of the sealed box a short time later and found herself in an alley in a run-down residential section of the city. She then signaled a passing patrolman, who took her to a police station.

Race has big role in rising oil prices

TEHERAN — As sure as you drive a car, heat a home or wear or use things based on petrochemicals, your cost of living will go up come October.

Rowan

You'll hear lots of talk about what this will do to the balance of payments of the U.S., Japan and several European countries; you'll hear talk about how this price hike will fuel worldwide inflation. What you won't hear is frank talk about the racial implications of this worldwide war over oil prices.

I've heard my first batch of frank talk here — from Jamshid Amouzegar, Iran's interior minister, and finance minister at the time OPEC was making the world-shaking decisions to quadruple the price of oil.

"I want to talk to you from the heart," said Amouzegar, one of the most powerful men in this increasingly powerful country. "There is a lot of racial prejudice in this conflict over oil prices."

"What is bothering the West is that the door of their exclusive private club is being pushed open by people who are a bit darker. We have gone for generations where the affluent, industrialized people assumed God had decreed that wealth, the good life, the power to rule, was something blond, blue-eyed people were to have and enjoy exclusively."

"Oil is a natural resource that God put under Iran. They used to take it from us. Well, today we are not taking anything from anyone. We are simply saying: if you want our resources, this is our price. No one is forced to buy."

A black columnist turns a bit cynical, at least suspicious, when someone uses

"racial prejudice" as an excuse for raising the prices of a vital commodity to the extent that the industrial world loses $97 billion in foreign reserves in one year and the developing countries go $27 billion more in debt. One easily suspects that Amouzegar is simply refining what has been an active and shrewd public relations campaign.

Yet, deep in my heart, as the saying used to go, I know he's right.

All this talk in the West about "the transfer of wealth" is deeply rooted in just the kind of racism Amouzegar is talking about. When the British, French, Americans were piling up riches from oil they took from the Persian Gulf area, nobody talked about a "transfer of wealth." That song made the Western hit parade only when the OPEC countries began to take some back.

"Yes, we are shifting money from the rich nations to the poor OPEC countries," said Amouzegar. "and we are right in doing so. Iran lost $26 billion over the last several years — money Iran would have had if the oil companies had upped their payments commensurate with inflation.

"There was a long shift of money from our poor countries to Western Europe and Japan. Cheap energy built the economic miracles of Japan and Western Europe."

But no longer, says Amouzegar. And if he is right there could soon be a profound change in the coloration of the members of that club known as "the great powers."

Unless, of course, hikes in petroleum prices reach a level of greed where the entire club is destroyed.

Amouzegar insists that salvation, not disaster, will be the result of the price increases, a bit of logic that will be hard to swallow by millions of consumers.

He says, however, that OPEC is only making oil prices equivalent to the cost of producing alternative sources of energy. If oil prices remained low, he argues, there would be no incentive to find new energy sources, all the oil would be used up in 30 years "and we would all face disaster."

How destructive have the higher prices been? Amouzegar says West Germany "paid the higher prices in 1974 and still lifted her foreign reserves from $33 to $42 billion. Japan ended in the black for 1974 insofar as foreign reserves are concerned. France did okay. Only the United Kingdom and Italy did worse. The internal structure of Italy is to blame, not oil prices. The rich don't pay taxes in Italy, so they try to raise the cost of governing by taking gas, pasta and wine."

You listen to this lean, dark, sophisticated Iranian and think that he makes a powerful argument about the relationship of racial snobbery to oil prices.

Then you are left to ponder how well the argument sets with India, Pakistan, Jamaica, Bangladesh — developing countries whose dark-skinned people must pay the same price the U.S., Germany and Japan pay for OPEC oil.

Red star ascending: where will it end?

One can only stand in awe at the rapidity with which the Western alliance gives every appearance of coming apart at the seams.

The latest jolt came this week, when the Italian Communist Party rolled up unprecedented gains in regional elections. It finished only 2 percentage points behind the Christian Democrats, the dominant party in Italian politics for the past 30 years.

Although general elections in Italy are not scheduled until 1977, the chances are now good that they will be held much earlier as a result of the political instability that is certain to prevail.

If the Communists should win in the general elections — which now is a distinct possibility — another prime member of the NATO alliance would fall, and the whole complexion of Southern Europe — indeed Europe itself — would change radically.

With France out of NATO,

Greece and Turkey still at each other's throats over the Cyprus question, and Portugal giving every appearance of being on the brink of a Communist takeover, the 26-year-old alliance has never looked shakier.

These events are sterling successes for Soviet foreign policy and subversion undreamed of a few years ago. Spirits must indeed be high in the Kremlin. Correspondingly, they represent devastating setbacks for American interests and the security of Western Europe.

Only one explanation can be offered for such a phenomenon — a general paralysis of the will on the part of the United States and her allies. Where is the Western leadership today that can rally the free world to the defense of its institutions?

We better find it soon — and move on the offensive — or there won't be a free world left to defend.

Warning for Kim of atomic reprisal

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary James Schlesinger has been trying to send a message to Pyongyang. He wants to put North Korea's Premier Kim Il-sung on notice, according to competent sources, that Kim may risk nuclear retaliation if he attempts to revive the Korean war.

Schlesinger has placed increased emphasis lately on limited nuclear warfare as a military option. In the backrooms of the Pentagon, he has suggested striking North Korean targets with tactical nuclear weapons if the Communist forces attempt to cross the 38th parallel.

Schlesinger would like to get this word to the recklessly ambitious Kim who for months has been tunneling under the demilitarized zone and has now deployed armored forces for a possible offensive.

Schlesinger has issued public warnings of a direct attack upon North Korean military forces if a conflict should flare up. He has been careful, however, not to mention nuclear retaliation in public.

The cautious warnings have had the approval of President Ford, who hoped to deter Pyongyang without alarming Peking and Moscow. The President has taken pains also not to stir up Congress. He has given private assurances to congressional leaders that he will not order U.S. forces into combat in Korea without formal congressional approval.

Meanwhile, Schlesinger has pushed the development of mobile nuclear weapons as the best defense against future Koreans and Vietnamese. The Strategic Air Command has sent top-secret briefing teams to explain the new nuclear policy to bomber crews and missile wings. In military shorthand, the secret briefings are called NUWEP, which means Nuclear Weapons Employment Policy.

This is more a change of emphasis than a change of policy. The Limited Nuclear Option, or LNO in military parlance, has been available to the President since the early 1960s. Throughout the Vietnam war, for example, the possibility always existed that nuclear weapons might have been used against selected targets in Vietnam.

We have established that some U.S. planes actually flew combat missions with tactical nuclear weapons. Competent sources told us that in the mid-1960s an F-102 pilot fired a nuclear missile by accident against some North Vietnamese gunboats in Haiphong Bay. The error reportedly was caused by a crossed wire in the firing safety mechanism.

We did our best to check out the incident but were never able to confirm it. Although we were given the name of the pilot who allegedly misfired the nuke, we were never able to track him down.

Our allies, meanwhile, are apprehensive over Schlesinger's new emphasis on limited nuclear warfare. The controversy is summarized in a confidential NATO document in our possession.

"Nuclear attack would be met by whatever scale of launch the circumstances demanded, including, for example, a precision strike against Soviet military targets," states the document.

"Supporters of this change claim that it gives the U.S. President greater flexibility in decision making; that it adds to the credibility of the nuclear guarantee to Europe; and it informs the USSR that United States is prepared to continue the arms race if necessary."

"Critics, however, maintain that in making the use of nuclear weapons more feasible, it increases the possibility of a nuclear war; also it is destabilizing, in that the USSR could interpret it as a move towards a first strike capability."

WILD FLIGHT: Two senior Senate staff members had themselves a boisterous time on a recent flight to London.

The rampaging pair, Robert Vastine and Paul Leventhal, both members of the Senate Government Operations Committee staff, booked first-class passage, although they were supposed to travel by coach as an economy measure.

They had scarcely settled in their plush seats, according to witnesses, than they were served champagne. The two Senate employees quickly polished off a bottle of Moet, along with shrimp cocktail and other hors d'oeuvres.

Later Vastine asked for red wine to wash down his main course. When the stewardess informed him there was nothing but Bordeaux on board, he began hollering about the terrible service.

Nonetheless, the Senate staffers downed two full bottles of Bordeaux, which Vastine grabbed from the stewardess' hand. He also ate three portions of roast beef, followed by a double portion of ice cream.

Yet he raised such a howl about the poor service that a stewardess rushed from the first-class cabin in tears. And at the end of the flight, an internal Pan Am teletype quoted both the captain and purser as reporting "two first class passengers, Vastine and Leventhal, extremely abusive and caused embarrassment to remaining first class passengers."

Vastine and Leventhal confirmed that Vastine had been vociferous but not vulgar in his criticism of the service. "I was irritated," said Vastine. "One shouldn't lose one's temper, but I did." He said the crew was "very disorganized," the food "was kind of thrown at us" and "not one profane word crossed my lips."

This was disputed by other witnesses. A Pan Am spokesman said the company would make "no comment" on the incident.

Sailing with the heavies

By DOUG KNEIBERT

Among boat owners, the one abiding truism is that no matter what size boat you own, the best boat to have is one larger.

As a sailboater, I am no exception to this rule. For years now I have secretly (my wife would say not so secretly) fantasized about owning something in the cruiser class. Which would be somewhat larger than my present 14-foot model.

This fever shot up considerably last Sunday, which was a Father's Day to remember. To make a long story short, I happened to be at the right spot at the right time to hitch a ride on—not an 18-footer, not even a 25-footer—but a 29'er.

There she sat at a pier north of Camdenton, gleaming in the sunlight, multi-colored signal flags flapping from her head and back stays. Her mainmast towered into the sunny sky.

Before getting underway we reefed the main to reduce the sail area, since whitecaps were ripping out in the channel under the influence of a 20-knot wind.

The diesel auxiliary coughed into action upon demand and we cleared the dock and pointed her prow toward open water. Aboard my sailboat this is known as the paddling phase.

We then brought her nose around into the wind, so the sails would flap and not fill, and the main and jib were hoisted. At that point we cut the engine and let the wind take over.

Take over it did. In an instant she was knifing through the agitated waves with utter disdain. I would never have even chanced it in the Blue Jay.

Once we settled down, I took the opportunity to explore below deck. I determined that my frame could fit nicely in one of the two seven-foot bunks. There were four others of slightly shorter length amidships and in the forward compartment. In fair weather at least two others could have used the cockpit. In short, a true yacht.

Steering was a dream, once you got the hang of it. For me this meant learning to turn in the direction you wanted to go, where just the opposite is true on tiller-controlled boats. But this one boasted a shiny chrome wheel, which was so responsive to the slightest touch that I tended to oversteer the sloop.

Too soon it was all over, and we were back at the dock. Loaded with brochures, the price quotation ringing in my head, we trudged back to the car.

But I had seen the future—or what I fondly hope to be the future—and it works.

Merchants ride two-out single in 9th

By VAUGH HART
Sports Editor

Paul Kostopolus capped a three-run Sedalia Merchants' rally in the ninth Thursday night and pulled the local entry in the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League to a 5-4 victory over Huntsville in Liberty Park Stadium.

Kostopolus guided a 3-2, two-out Paul Massman pitch between first and second that drove in Doug Maple with the winning run. The come-back victory was the sixth win in seven outings by the Merchants, who lead the Western Division of the CMBJ.

In other CMBJ action Thursday, Centralia dumped Lexington, 12-5; Marshall outlasted New Franklin, 10-8; and Boonville whipped the Columbia Angels, 11-2.

Kostopolus, filling in for regular third-baseman Rick McRoy, had two of the Merchants' 10 hits. He also drove in two runs.

The rally capped the Merchants' come-back from a 4-1 deficit, after Huntsville chased in four runs in the fifth inning.

Although the 10-hit Sedalia attack played a big part in the win, two costly balks by Massman were also deciding factors.

Massman issued a balk in the second inning that yielded Sedalia's first run. In the ninth, Massman was charged with another balk that sent Blaine Henningsen home with tying run, setting up Kostopolus' game-winning single.

The second balk was just too much for Huntsville Manager Rod Haley. He protested the call, an argument followed and Haley was ejected from the game by plate umpire C. L. Brownsberger.

Henningsen, who picked up three hits, gave Sedalia its first run of the game in the second, when he singled, advanced to third on a single by Maple and came home on Massman's first balk.

But Huntsville countered with all of its runs in the fifth and jumped to a 4-1 lead.

Starting Sedalia hurler Ed Pickens fell victim of a throwing error by Kostopolus on Rob Gordon's grounder to third to open the inning. Pickens walked Mike Holcomb, putting runners at first and second.

Pickens was removed from the mound and Dane Henningsen, who started in left field, replaced him. Pickens moved to second and Randy Pettit, who entered the game as the league's leading hitter, went to left.

Henningsen retired Paul Liesman on a fly to left, but an error on shortstop Jim Sanders of a ball hit by Brad Remole, tied the game when Gordon came home.

Alan Bagby grounded out to third and it looked like the Merchants might get out of the inning with no more damage. However, John Crider rapped a single into right-center that drove in Holcomb and Remole. Jim Summers, who was the winning pitcher in Wednesday night's game with Tipton, drilled a double and Crider came home.

Massman followed that with a grounder to the left side that hit Summers, who was called out for interference.

But the damage had already been done, leaving Sedalia facing a 4-1 deficit.

The Merchants got one of those runs back in the eighth when Pettit reached second safely on an error by Crider at short to lead off the inning. Massman balked for the second time in the game, sending Pettit to third. He scored on a single by Kostopolus.

First-baseman Pete Kostopolus led off Sedalia's ninth with a double; he went to third on a sacrifice fly by Pickens and scored on Blaine Henningsen's attempted bunt that rolled down the first base line. He wound up on first with an infield hit.

Henningsen stole second and moved to third on another infield hit by Maple.

After Willie Reed struck out for the second out of the inning, Sedalia loaded the bases when Pettit walked. That was followed by Massman's third balk of the game and Kostopolus' game-winning single between Remole and Bagby.

Sedalia will face Boonville on the road in its next action Sunday night.

Robinson comes through in role as a substitute

PITTSBURGH (AP) — As a reserve outfielder with the Pittsburgh Pirates, Bill Robinson hasn't been overworked this season. But there are certainly no complaints about the work he's been doing when he gets a chance.

Filling in Thursday night for Al Oliver, who is nursing a pulled hamstring, Robinson slugged a head-high changeup over the left-centerfield wall to give the Pirates their first run in a 5-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I enjoy coming in to help out when there is a need," said Robinson, who has a .311 batting average with three home runs and 16 runs batted in after only 94 trips to the plate.

"It takes 25 men to win in this game and we've used all 25."

Robinson's first-inning shot off John Curtis, 4-5, gave Pittsburgh's Jerry Reuss all the scoring he needed for his fifth victory in a row and an 8-4 record.

The shutout, a six-hitter, was Reuss' second in a row over the Cardinals and his third of the season.

The big left-hander struck out seven while giving up no walks and Manager Danny Murtaugh called it "Jerry's best outing since he came here" before the start of the 1974 season.

"He had a good fast ball and he had control," Murtaugh said from his locker room rocking hair. "I can't remember any other game when he didn't walk at least one batter."

With the exception of Ted Sizemore, who managed a one-out double in the fourth, not a single Cardinal got as far as second base. The first four men to reach base on singles were cut down in double plays.

Meanwhile, the Pirates were living up to their reputations as long-ball hitters. Willie Stargell collected his 11th homer of the year, with Robinson aboard, in the fourth, and Dave Parker collected his 10th in the sixth inning, driving in Stargell.

Robinson, who came here from Philadelphia before the start of the season, said he was off to a better start with the Phillies two years ago.

A's get ready for K.C. stand

Baseball's World Champion Oakland A's have come up with their own plumbers' unit to sabotage any title aspirations of challengers in the American League West.

"We've won four of five and put Minnesota back a ways," said Oakland Manager Al Dark. "Now we've got to prepare for Kansas City."

The makeshift A's capitalized on strong pitching by Sonny Siebert, Glenn Abbott and Paul Lindblad and some daring baserunning for a 5-2 victory over Minnesota in 10 innings Thursday.

Oakland won the final four games of the five-game set, which left the Twins eight games behind.

"We've got to be thankful we could win this game resting some of our guys," said Dark, who rested Bert Campaneris, Gene Tenace and Billy Williams and used Reggie Jackson as the designated hitter. However, Ted Martinez, Ray Fosse and Angel Mangual filled in capably.

"They all needed a rest for one reason or another," said Dark. "Every series is a big one and we've got one coming

St. Louis Cardinals second baseman Ted Sizemore starts his throw to first base after forcing out Pittsburgh's Rennie Stennett in the third inning of Thursday night's game in Pittsburgh. Manny Sanguillen ground to Mario Guerrero at short. He relayed to Sizemore, who got the throw off in time to complete the double play. The Cardinals wound up on the short end of a 5-0 score.

Killebrew getting support from fan in Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Jacksonville baseball fans have helped a local man stuff the all-star ballot box for Harmon Killebrew.

A special tribute to Killebrew here Thursday night, but the fifth all-time leading home run hitter was busy with the Kansas City Royals, and couldn't attend.

Richard Newberry, 29, a Jacksonville Beach jeweler, said he filled out 40,000 ballots himself and paid $850 for a sign promoting Killebrew, who has hit 568 home runs in his 20-season career.

Newberry also persuaded 676 fans who watched Jacksonville beat Birmingham 7-2 in a Southern League game Thursday night to sign 8,000 ballots for Killebrew.

The players in the major league all-star game July 15 are picked by the fans.

Killebrew couldn't make it to his special night, but phoned to thank his fans for their support.

The 38-year-old Killebrew earned his baseball reputation with the Minnesota Twins, who later traded him to Kansas City for use as a designated hitter.

Bill Utz trails in fourth

Defending International Motor Contest Association sprint car champion Bill Utz, Sedalia, is currently in fourth place in the 1975 standings, according to figures released Thursday by the IMCA office in Des Moines.

Utz has 610 points and trails leader Ralph Blackett, Des Moines (875), runner-up Rick Ferkel, Bowling Green, Ohio (695) and former sprint champion Ray Lee Goodwin, Polo, Mo. (690).

Roger Rager, Mound, Minn., is only five points behind Utz in fifth place, while Daryl Dawley, Jr., Kansas City; Larry Kirkpatrick, Wood River, Ill.; and Steve Hainline, Bonaparte, Iowa, round out the top 10.

In the stock car division, Connie Edwards, Oklahoma City, has 1,035 points and a commanding lead over current runner-up Roy McClellan, Riverside, Mo. (875). Third in the stock car division is held by Billy Meyers, Grand Island, Neb. Bill Schwader, Riverdale, Iowa, and Tommy Edwards, Moore, Okla., are in fourth and fifth.

Sixth through 10th spots belong to Lanny Johnson,

Stillwater, Okla.; Danny Daniels, Del City, Okla.; Tommy Taylor, Irving, Tex.; Russell Brundidge, Ada, Okla.; and Alfred Jones, Bartlesville, Okla.

The IMCA trail leads to Sedalia later this season, when both the stocks and the sprints will appear at the Missouri State Fair.

Qualifying opens

U.S. Russia work on technicalities

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — With the U.S.-USSR dual track meet still a huge question mark, American athletes will try to win places on a U.S. team this afternoon in the National AAU Track and Field Championships.

The prestigious meet with the Russians was left dangling Thursday after it had been canceled by AAU officials over a television contract technicality. Russian officials were reported still hoping to solve the problem and proceed with the meet scheduled for July 4-5 at Kiev.

However, the 357 athletes gathered at the University of Oregon were basically unconcerned with whether the meet would take place. Foremost is simply making the U.S. team, and it takes a first or second to do that.

And the guys who will undoubtedly have the inside track at making the team in the 100-meter and 200-meter dashes are Steve Williams, Ivory Crockett and Reggie Jones.

Williams, co-holder of the world 100-meter record of 9.9, is favored over Crockett, the first man to run 100 yards in 9.0, and Jones, the muscular youngster from Tennessee.

One prominent American, however, won't be around. Houston McTear, the Florida schoolboy, was not sent enough money by the AAU to pay expenses for himself and his coach, Will Willoughby, and will reluctantly remain at home.

Others given a good chance to win the events are Don Quarrie, Hasely Crawford and James Gilkes, but they cannot make the American team because they are not Americans.

Under a reciprocal agreement that permits Americans to compete in other countries' national championships, some foreigners are permitted in this meet, which was first held in 1876. Quarrie is from Jamaica; Crawford is from Trinidad; Gilkes is from Guyana.

The top two Americans in any events led by foreigners get the team berths.

Tommy Reamon will remain in the WFL

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Two of the World Football League's offensive stars of last year will be together on the Jacksonville Express in the new WFL this season.

Tommy Reamon, who led the league in rushing and was one of the WFL's three most valuable players of 1974, signed with the Express Thursday and joined quarterback George Mira, who was most voted valuable in the World Bowl game.

Mira and the Birmingham Americans nosed out Reamon and the Florida Blazers 22-21 in the 1974 WFL version of the Super Bowl.

The Express got the rights to Mira and signed him earlier. The Blazers, who were based in Orlando, are now defunct.

Reamon chose to remain with the WFL after negotiating with the National Football League champion Pittsburgh Steelers and the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian League.

He wouldn't say whether his contract guarantees him the $37,947 still owed him by the old WFL.

Reamon was a regular running back at Missouri in 1972 and 1973 after being named national junior college back of the year for two seasons while playing with Fort Smith, Kan., Junior College.

Perez closes in on Garvey in N.L. voting

NEW YORK (AP) — In the first five years of fan balloting to decide the starting lineups for baseball's All-Star game, only one position has had a new leader each year — the National League's first base.

Steve Garvey of Los Angeles is hoping to break that string, although the second weekly National league voter tabulations released by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office Friday shows Cincinnati's Tony Perez is a strong challenger.

Garvey was a write-in starter last year and went on to win the Commissioner's Award as the Most Valuable Player. He had a lead of more than 54,000 votes in the initial week of balloting this year, but Perez, who has played in five All-Star games, is now only 5,963 votes behind. Garvey has 431,344 votes to 425,381 for Perez.

Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench, second baseman Joe Morgan and shortstop Dave Concepcion have sizeable leads, while third baseman Ron Cey of Los Angeles has a comfortable margin.

Pete Rose of Cincinnati continues to set the pace in the outfield and New York Mets Del Unser and Rusty Staub have a lead for the other two positions. But Staub is being pressed by Jimmy Wynn of Los Angeles and St. Louis Cardinals Reggie Smith and Lou Brock.

Title IX

NCAA head blasts law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association says new federal regulations requiring equal treatment of men and women in athletic programs are "calculated ... to destroy" such popular and successful college sports as football and basketball.

NCAA President John A. Fuzak told a House education subcommittee the Ford administration regulations will destroy the financial basis upon which most universities operate their athletic programs for men and women.

"A failure to provide some protection for revenues from those sports which enjoy significant public interest would eventually result in an erosion of that interest and consequently an erosion of those revenues," said Fuzak, associate dean of the college of education at Michigan State University.

Fuzak said the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which wrote the regulations, "has been absolutely unwilling to look at the economic structure and realities of college athletics, and has in effect insisted on treating revenue-producing sports in the same fashion as those — for either men or women — which are not revenue productive."

"We think this attitude is just plain unintelligent," he said.

Fuzak made his remarks in a statement prepared for the subcommittee which is reviewing the guidelines implementing Title IX.

The new rules, signed by President Ford and set to go into effect July 21 unless rejected by Congress, require equal treatment for males and females in gym classes, vocational training, financial aid, faculty hiring and many other activities, especially athletics.

Fuzak said the ultimate effect of the regulations are predictable.

If gross revenues from such sports as football and basketball must be as available for women's sports as well as for men's, he said, "the inevitable result is a downgrading of football and basketball in quality and, ultimately, loss of spectator interest."

He suggested that Congress declare a moratorium on any application of Title IX to intercollegiate athletic programs and require HEW to study its practical impact on the sports programs.

Finally, Fuzak said, he wanted it understood that the NCAA does not advocate that revenue-producing sports be exempted from Title IX as, he said, had been reported.

He said the NCAA has advocated that gross revenues from revenue-producing sports be permitted to apply first to covering the expenses of maintaining those sports.

More marks fall

U.S. swimmers continue pace

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — America's young swimmers are setting a pace of a world record a day at the Amateur Athletic Union's National World Championship trials.

The opening session of the five-day trials produced a men's 200 meter mark by Bruce Furniss.

And the second day Thursday Furniss helped push Tim Shaw to a new record in the 400 freestyle.

While Furniss set the record in the 200 meters during qualifying in the morning Wednesday and broke it again at night in the finals, Shaw was well off the record in qualifying but came back to take nearly a second of his own world record in the finals Thursday night.

The three minutes, 54.69 seconds by Shaw bettered the 17-year-old Long Beach youth's own time of 3:53.95 in the AAU national championships last summer.

"I felt really good," said Shaw, who went directly from the trials to his high school graduation ceremonies.

"I swam the race the way I wanted to swim it," he added. "My stroke felt a little off, but I really felt good."

Shaw opened in front with a time of 1:58.03 for the first 200 meters and finished with a 1:55.92 to overhaul Furniss, an 18-year-old from Santa Ana, Calif, who led for a time but finished second with a clocking of 3:55.40 that is the third fastest ever after the two world record times.

Shirley Babashoff of Mission Viejo, Calif., this country's best women freestyle swimmer, broke her own listed world record in the 200 meter freestyle with a time of 2:02.54. It was only enough for a new American record, however, as her listed mark of 2:02.94 had already been bettered by the pending record of 2:02.27 by Kornelia Ender of East Germany.

Valerie Lee, also of Mission Viejo, was second at 2:03.58.

The top two finishers in each of the events, running at the rate of about five minutes a day through Sunday, qualify for the United States team for the World Championships July 18-27 at Cali, Colombia.

Qualifying is scheduled today in the men's 1,500 meter freestyle with Shaw the defending national AAU champion. Finals for the 1,500 will be held Saturday.

In women's competition today's featured event was sure to be the 400 freestyle with Miss Babashoff, the world record holder at 4:15.77, going against former record holder Heather Greenwood of Fresno, Calif.

The qualifiers finished in the top four spots in the Missouri Junior Olympics Championships two weeks ago at Central Missouri State University.

Saturday's meet will be the final step in the Junior Olympics program, sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Association for the bantam and midget divisions. Junior, intermediate and senior division qualifiers will earn the right to advance to the Region VIII Junior Olympic Championships, July 12 at K.U.

Representing Sedalia in the senior boys division are Mike Riley, Richard Hunter, Bryan Kelchner and Bob Kelchner.

Riley won three events in the state competition — the shot, discus and javelin. Hunter recorded a second in the two-mile run, while Bryan Kelchner was second in the 880. Bob Kelchner placed second in the mile and fourth in the 880.

Jeff Byrd and Jeff Birdsong qualified in the boys junior division. Byrd won the 100 and the long jump and placed second in the 220. Birdsong placed fourth in the long jump.

Herby Bellmer will be competing in the junior boys division, winning the state 100 and 220 dashes.

Steve Howell qualified for the meet in the bantam division, placing second in the baseball throw and fourth in the high jump.

Only four girls will be competing in the meet from Sedalia. All are in the midget division. Regina Cline won the 100-yard dash. Stacy Schulz was first in the high jump. Anita Dabney placed second in the 220, while Cassandra Simms was fourth in the 220.

Admission for the event is $1. Next week, the ABMHRA will host the qualifying futurity and derby trials for the July 4 Firecracker two and three-year-old finals.

Women putter in tape

By STANLEY JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
MANHASSET, N.Y. (AP) — Two women golfers have parlayed their hobby into a booming business based on the belief that even a duffer likes to see himself on television — and doesn't mind paying the bill.

Kay Delaney and Sue Shea of Scarsdale, N.Y., started putting other players on video tape between their own rounds at the Scarsdale Golf Club last summer. For $300 or $400, they now show instant replays of the instant stars at clubs or private parties.

"The worse they played, the better they loved the film," said Kay. "And the biggest hit was hearing those wild remarks recorded as they missed strokes. The worse the language the better the show."

The two women started out when their husbands gave them TV equipment for Christmas. The golf shots started as a gag, but spurted into big business.

"We're not in the 500 biggest businesses yet," the two said almost simultaneously of their six-figure turnover. "But we're getting there."

They have an office in this Long Island golfing town, 15 female employees and new equipment costing $4,000. They call themselves Videoway Inc.

"We're golf videos, not widows," they both are fond of saying. Sue operates the camera and Kay does interviews.

The video tape is shown through a TV set to which an instant playback gadget is attached. Most showings are at club parties or at homes.

CB club plans to hold coffee

The Sedalia 50 and 65 CB Club will hold a coffee and white elephant sale from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday at Watson Tire Co., formerly Fleet Tire Service, South Highway 65.

One of the purposes of the coffee is to compile a directory from call letters of area persons who have CB licenses. Like a telephone directory, the CB directory would enable CB-licensed persons to contact other operators.

Farm roundup

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department experts say the slump plaguing cotton growers and the textile industry in the past year is showing signs of improvement.

"Since dropping to a 40-year low in December, consumption of cotton by U.S. mills has improved gradually during recent months," the department's Economic Research Service said Wednesday.

However, total use of cotton by textile mills is expected to be only about 5.75 million bales for the 1974-75 season, down from nearly 7.5 million last year.

Exports also have plummeted to an expected 3.9 million bales

Employment picture dim

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Many economists forecast an expansion of business activity during the late summer months, but few of them foresee a substantial, concurrent improvement in the jobless rate. Why?

Isn't it logical to expect that as economic activity quickens, as production improves, few people will be frustrated in finding jobs? And that the jobless rate will quickly decline from 9.2 per cent?

The answer: No. There's no conspiracy; it's all explainable.

First off, as the economy emerges from a recession there is a decided tendency on the part of business to seek productivity increases — to get more for the dollar. There is a great deal of hesitancy about hiring.

Businessmen decline to commit themselves to expansion until they have some certainty about the future. They fear overexpansion.

Instead of hiring, they might be more inclined to seek greater efficiency from the existing staff. Or, they might increase the number of hours worked by the staff until they are certain the recovery will continue.

Argus Research Corp., wholesaler of market and economic information to securities brokers and institutions, notes a second factor at work: Despite unemployment, it often is difficult to find workers with the proper skills.

"This may be the result of either the inability of the unemployed to relocate or differences in skill requirements," says Argus.

Demographics, or the population factor, accounts for a third explanation of why an improvement in the jobless rate usually lags behind economic recovery. The labor force is growing faster than the ability of the economy to absorb workers. Eventually they will be absorbed, but many months will be lost in the process.

Another reason also is frequently cited: Many of the largest employers — automotive, housing, appliances and the like — are cyclical industries. Right now their cycles are down, although seemingly destined to rise, if only slowly.

Until these cyclical industries get moving again they will have a pronounced drag on the general employment rate.

There is, nevertheless, a considerable amount of bullish news for the employment situation. Among those cited by Argus:

—The rate of factory hirings and recalls has risen.

—Employment rose in 43 per cent of 172 key industries in April, up from only 17 per cent in February.

—The number of first time claimants for jobless insurance fell in May, leaving the number of claimants at half the February peak.

Ann Landers

Kids need models more than critics

Dear Ann Landers: I am very sad about our dear little three-year-old grandson. He has picked up some four-letter words which embarrass his parents. I'm sure he learned these words from them, since they argue a great deal and are both capable of some shamefully crude language.

Now they are applying a large wooden spoon to the child's backside every time he says them.

I have told my daughter and son-in-law to ignore the boy when he uses these nasty words because he does it to get a rise out of them.

They say I'm wrong — that no child will continue to do something if he learns it will result in a painful paddling. Are they right and am I wrong? — K.G.

Dear K.G.: You are right and they are wrong. What your daughter and her husband doesn't understand is that children would rather be spanked than ignored. Obviously, your grandchild is not getting enough attention.

Children need models more than they need critics. Most youngsters learn verboten words from playmates. Apparently your grandson doesn't even need to leave the house.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I love each other very much, but he has been after me to join a "swingers club" in Indianapolis "just to see what it's like."

I'm afraid of what it might do to our marriage. He says it will improve it — that all married people need a few extra kicks. He claims if a couple really love each other "swinging" will not hurt their relationship.

Please tell me what you have heard from couples who went in for these "extra kicks"? Did it help? Did it hurt?

I'm a broad-minded person but this sort of thing seems very far out to me. — Muncie, Ind.

Dear Muncie: I have heard from several people who went in for "swinging." Most of the letters were from wives who said they were being divorced because those "extra kicks" lead to emotional involvements and bitter arguments.

Tell your husband to forget it. "Swinging" is dangerous, destructive and has no positive aspects whatever.

Dear Ann Landers: God bless that man who wrote to praise his wife for all the things she does during the day. He found out what a remarkable woman he was married to when she had to go to the hospital for a hysterectomy and he took care of the house and kids for a week.

Are you sure that man isn't from another planet? I've been married to an ornery cuss for 47 years and he has yet to give me a compliment, a thank you, a Christmas present, or a card on my birthday. I never hear one word out of him unless he wants to give me hell for something. I must give HIM a compliment, however — he's the best fault-finder in the world.

How wonderful to learn that a husband somewhere appreciates his wife. Too bad I wasn't a better judge of people 47 years ago. — Lydia

Dear Lydia: You didn't ask for any advice so I won't give any, but my sympathy goes out to you. I just hope there are compensations — like loving children and grandchildren.

Polly's pointers

Careful scraping removes plaster

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those people who are so quick to judge others and classify anyone associated with, in this case, motorcycles as the wrongdoers and from this form unfair opinions. Mrs. G.G.'s Pet Peeve about noisy and useless motorcycles was unfair. There are laws restricting the noise they can make just as with autos. My guess is that her Peeve is not with the noise but is a personal gripe against motorcycles in general. She cannot see any apparent good use for them which is not respecting the rights of others. Motorcycles have are providing many hours of good clean fun for teen-agers and families at little expense when otherwise they might be spending that time getting into trouble. Also, Mrs. G.G., think of the noise pollution from fire trucks and sirens.

As to a motorcycle transporting only one person we have two and each capable of transporting four people the same as her car. One has a side car and the other is a three-wheeler with seating for four. They get 40 miles to a gallon of gas, too. Do not knock another's pleasure because it does not fit into your life. — MRS. L.P.

DEAR POLLY — An ice cream scoop is great to use for measuring shortening, margarine (soft) or butter when cooking. Mine measures four tablespoons or 1/4 cup exactly so I find this certainly easier and much less messy than other methods of measuring such ingredients. — DONNA

DEAR POLLY — An easy way to clean all the family combs that have goo clogged between the teeth is to lay them in the bathroom basin and spray with the foamy cleaner you use to clean the basin. Wash out the basin. Then if the combs are not entirely clean give them another squirt and help it along with a discarded toothbrush. Rinse thoroughly. Quick and easy! — MRS. G.R.S.

DEAR POLLY — We are moving into a newly built home and I am faced with the problem of removing plaster and cement from the ceramic tile bathtub that has non-slip circles inside. Can the same method for removing this plastic from the tub be used for removing it from the marble window sills? — DEBBIE

DEAR DEBBIE — The professional advice I received was to VERY carefully remove such chunks with a retractable razor blade scraper (bought at the hardware store) but not a razor blade. That might scratch the porcelain finish. The same carefully used method should remove it from the sills as both have the same glazed finish.

One other suggestion was to fill the tub with hot water and keep it hot, by refilling from time to time, and then rub with a non-abrasive dobbie pad such as used for cleaning non-stick skillets. Just keep on and on with this. — POLLY. (NEA)

It is estimated that 1.2 million motor vehicles will be checked by the California Highway Patrol for noise-emission violations during 1975.

One year makes a lot of difference

HOLLYWOOD — Bruce Fairbairn had his bags packed. He and his wife Jeri were about to leave for a couple of lazy weeks in the West Indies.

Then he thought back to exactly one year. It was one of those phenomenal years that brought Fairbairn from the brink of obscurity to the outskirts of fame.

"A year ago," he said, "I was in New York. I was studying acting, doing an occasional off-off-Broadway show. To support myself and Jeri, I was waiting on tables and tending bar in a restaurant on Third Avenue."

And then, as it can in the entertainment world, things happened. In its peculiar way, lightning struck. He got an offer to play a small part on an episode of Police Story.

"And that led," he says, "to the offer to play Chris Owens on The Rookies. Naturally, I took it."

It was a considerable turning point in his life and fortunes. Now he's one of the four stars of that successful show, which has already been renewed for next season.

But it has been a long and, in some ways, a difficult year. Stepping in to an established show to replace one of the principals (Michael Ontkean) had its tough side.

"It was hard," Fairbairn says. "I had done that once before. Some years ago I replaced someone in a dinner theater production of 'Under the Yum-Yum Tree' in Shreveport, La., and that was hard, so I knew this wouldn't be easy.

"We all had our problems, adjusting to each others. But it worked out. Georg (Georg Stanford Brown) was particularly helpful."

Fairbairn is a New Yorker who came to California when he was 10, after his parents separated. But he still likes to think of himself as a New Yorker. When Bruce and his mother and sister came to Los Angeles, his mother supported the family by working in UCLA's Extension Division.

"When I was a boy," he says, "I remember once I was taken to a movie studio to watch some shooting. I think I've wanted to be an actor ever since that experience."

But he went to college — Santa Monica City College and then UCLA. It didn't take him too long to realize he was just spinning his ambition, so he dropped out.

"I took the $90 I had saved," he says, "and went back to New York. And I spent the next six years there."

He studied. He did some bits in minor plays and some TV soap operas. To support himself (and, later, his wife) he did everything from selling balloons to washing dishes.

That is probably all behind him now. He is an integral part of a hit show and he is now part of the Hollywood mainstream.

And he can think in terms of a West Indies vacation, knowing he has a good job to come back to when it's over.

Bruce Fairbairn

Saunders into a newer project

By JOAN CROSBY
UNIVERSAL CITY, Calif. — Herman Saunders' name formerly appeared on TV credits with regularity, mostly as producer of Adam-12.

The fact that his name has not appeared of late doesn't mean Herman is no longer active at Universal Studios.

Right now he is developing projects for the studio. Through one of them he has found an enthusiasm which has led to his being elected president of the board of the John Rossi Youth Foundation.

Rossi, who is working on a book called "Hard Cores Don't Come From Apples" believes in a preventive form of guidance for juveniles called Diversion. Diversion is a simple thing: the knowledge that a youth engaged in an activity that gives him self-respect and the approval of adults, doesn't have the inclination to get into trouble.

The actual center where this diversion is carried on is in Santa Monica. What happens is that a juvenile first-time offender, instead of being booked and getting a record, is sent to Rossi.

"I have learned the word recidivism," Saunders says. (It's someone who relapses into criminal habits.) "His percentage of recidivism is seven per cent. In the juvenile courts it is 70 per cent."

It was Herm's old friend Dick Haymes who introduced Saunders to Rossi and the project. They are both actively involved in it.

In addition to this pilot movie in preparation, Herm is working on a show that could be subtitled Eve-12. It's about police women on patrol with the sheriff's department, called "Women on Patrol," and it's getting close to being an actuality.

Finally, there is a western with Sammy Davis as a black gunfighter who actually lived. His name was Isom Dart and he has been authenticated as being an escaped slave in the post-Civil War era who didn't relate to adults but did relate to kids.

Success is just ahead for Susan

By Dick Kleiner

AUSTIN, Tex. (NEA) — En route from Hollywood to Austin, for the Texas premiere of "The Great Waldo Pepper," Susan Sarandon had to change planes at the Dallas-Fort Worth airport.

She had a half-hour to kill and made a beeline for the airport's souvenir shop. She emerged happily, clutching a paper bag, and exhibited her trophies.

There was a gaudy T-shirt, emblazoned with a picture of the airport, and a small bottle, inside which was a Texas steer against a background of oil wells.

"Isn't that a hoot?" Susan said. "I love to buy tacky things."

Now that Susan Sarandon is one of the brightest of the younger crop of actresses, she can afford lots of tacky things. With important roles in both "The Front Page" and "The Great Waldo Pepper," she has arrived. TV fans may remember her starring in "The Last of the Belles."

Susan's name — Sarandon, which rhymes with abandon — is her married name, although she is currently embarked on a trial separation from her husband, Chris. Her real name is Tomalin and she's the oldest of nine children.

Her father was a singer who became a New York advertising executive. The family lived in Metuchen, N.J., where Susan grew up with all the responsibility you'd expect of the oldest of nine.

She grew up wanting to dance and-or act but never really thought much about it. She went to college — Catholic University in Washington, D.C. — where she earned her way through with a variety of jobs, including such menial ones as emptying bed pans in a hospital.
